A prominent banker and community leader tells you:

Why United States Savings Bonds are so important to your family and your own home town

If you and your neighbors are spending and saving wisely today, tomorrow's economic problems will solve themselves.

That's true for your family, as well as the community in which you live. And that's why U. S. Savings Bonds are so important to every American.

The secret of saving is system. And for most Americans, Savings Bonds are the perfect solution for systematic savings. They're safe. They're sure. Easily bought. And easily converted into cash should an emergency arise.

And now every U. S. Series E Savings Bond pays a new, higher interest—3½% when held to maturity! It matures faster, too, in only 8 years and 11 months. And redemption values are higher, especially in the earlier years.

Leading bankers and industrialists, all over the country, realizing the importance of thrift and savings to a sound economy, are giving their wholehearted support to the U. S. Savings Bonds program. Why not start your Bond investment program today—through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work or by regular purchases where you bank.

SAFE AS AMERICA . . . U. S. SAVINGS BONDS

Frances Fontane, past president of the group, led new candidates in an oath pledging their cooperation.

Ten members came forward and each lit a candle and gave one each of the club's ten purposes. After all the candles were lit, Miss Fontane presented Miss Arlyce Bedsole, new president, who told something about her duties as president.

Cub Scout Growth Cited At Meeting - The last cub scout pack meeting of the school year was held Thursday night at Jameson Hall with Jack Hollingsworth, Cubmaster conducting the meeting.

He announced hopes for some civic organization or Sunday School Class would sponsor the pack next fall so that the nine boys could be split into two packs and improve the organization here in the Belle Glade and South Bay area.

Mr. Hollingsworth also announced the need for new den mothers next September with all the new boys ready to join the Cub Scouts at that time. Volunteers will be appreciated in this worthwhile work.

Clever tricks were presented by Mrs. L. D. Keeler's den, Mrs. Neil Walker's den, and Mrs. Connell's den had charge of presenting the flags with Dennis Connell and Glenn Wolf doing an able job.

The boys were encouraged to work on their achievements during the summer months and awards were presented to a number of boys. The Tri-F Sunday school class which has sponsored this Pack for the past two years, presented each den Mother with a lovely carnation corsage and the whole pack of boys gave a robust three cheers for their hard working Cubmaster.

The meeting was closed by Mrs. Ludlow's den of boys each giving his own prayer.

Youth Learn New Modern Methods - Use of mechanical refrigeration by farm families jumped from 63 to 80 per cent in six years, according to the USDA, and undoubtedly this has been due to the extensive use of the freezing method to preserve home grown foods.

Among the young homemakers who utilize this process are the 4-H Club members enrolled in the 4-H Frozen Foods Project, the National Committee on Extension of the Home.

Boys and Girls Club Work points out. This modern foods program provides many opportunities to demonstrate and exhibit products. Under the guidance of local leaders the 4-Hers learn to plan balanced meals as well as to select and process meats, vegetables, and fruits for freezing.

Another project that helps extend family living is the 4-H Home Improvement program. Individual enterprises range from redecorating an entire room to reupholstering a single chair.

Both 4-H programs provide opportunities for club members to demonstrate and exhibit their work as well as to develop leadership. The 4-Hers also are in line with the national 4-H club activities and excellence in project work.

100 Farms Used ACP Program During 1957 ASC Manager States - Palm Beach County farmers used Agricultural Conservation Program cost-sharing assistance to establish conservation practices on 100 farms in 1957, according to Sam Schooley, county office manager for the ASC committee.

Total assistance received through the ACP by farmers in the county amounted to $81,544, he said. Federal assistance amounted to less than 50% of the cost of performing the approved conservation practices.

The farmer contributed the remainder of the cost and used their own labor and equipment in the process of carrying out the practices.

The county office manager also said that the 1958 ACP is essentially the same as the 1957 program. Farmers who need help with new and additional conservation on their farm should contact the county ASC office at the Mounts Building, West Palm Beach or the Sanders Building, Belle Glade, Schooley said.

Youth Learn New Modern Methods - Use of mechanical refrigeration by farm families jumped from 63 to 80 per cent in six years, according to the USDA, and undoubtedly this has been due to the extensive use of the freezing method to preserve home grown foods.

Among the young homemakers who utilize this process are the 4-H Club members enrolled in the 4-H Frozen Foods Project, the National Committee on Extension of the Home.

Boys and Girls Club Work points out. This modern foods program provides many opportunities to demonstrate and exhibit products. Under the guidance of local leaders the 4-Hers learn to plan balanced meals as well as to select and process meats, vegetables, and fruits for freezing.

Another project that helps extend family living is the 4-H Home Improvement program. Individual enterprises range from redecorating an entire room to reupholstering a single chair.

Both 4-H programs provide opportunities for club members to demonstrate and exhibit their work as well as to develop leadership. The 4-Hers also are in line with the national 4-H club activities and excellence in project work.

100 Farms Used ACP Program During 1957 ASC Manager States - Palm Beach County farmers used Agricultural Conservation Program cost-sharing assistance to establish conservation practices on 100 farms in 1957, according to Sam Schooley, county office manager for the ASC committee.

Total assistance received through the ACP by farmers in the county amounted to $81,544, he said. Federal assistance amounted to less than 50% of the cost of performing the approved conservation practices.

The farmer contributed the remainder of the cost and used their own labor and equipment in the process of carrying out the practices.

The county office manager also said that the 1958 ACP is essentially the same as the 1957 program. Farmers who need help with new and additional conservation on their farm should contact the county ASC office at the Mounts Building, West Palm Beach or the Sanders Building, Belle Glade, Schooley said.

For Senior Citizens' Health Fresh Fruits and Vegetables

Fresh fruits and vegetables play an important role in a balanced healthy diet for senior citizens. These are some of the reasons:

1. Nutrition experts agree that the best way to correct or forestall obesity, one of the greatest health hazards of the aging is to cut calorie intake, which is done most effectively by reducing the amount of fat in the diet. Nutritionist Dr. Frederick J. Stare has written, "Good nutrition for the adult is a smaller proportion of calories contributed by fats and a larger proportion by protein."

"Protein derived from cereal and vegetables, when given with milk, is just as good as from other sources."

2. According to findings of an extensive inquiry conducted by Dr. Harold D. Chope and Dr. Lester Bruser, there is indication that older persons with low blood levels of vitamins A and C and of niacin, suffer a higher mortality rate than do those with more of these substances in the blood.

3. The deep yellow vegetables and fruits and the leafy green vegetables and tomatoes provide vitamin A abundantly. Ninety per cent of the vitamin C in our diet comes from fruits and vegetables. Fresh fruits and vegetables contain niacin, though glandular tissues, lean meats, legumes and nuts are better sources.

4. When loss of appetite accompanies aging the cause is often found to be emotional insecurity. Genevieve W. Blumenfeld, Social Service Director, Orthodox Jewish Home for the Aged, Chicago, writes that serving good, tasty food, frequently dressed up in festive ways, says to the older person, "I care about you."

5. Dr. Max Millman points out that eating for a healthy old age starts early in life. The earlier the better. "The man of 70 is what he is not only because of what he ate today but of what he ate yesterday, a year ago, or even 50 or 60 years ago."

To insure good health in later life it is necessary to maintain good nutrition throughout life."

Let's have a "cook-out" ...the modern electric way!

Yen, electric service is today's BIG difference... when you move your summer living to the cool outdoors. Rotisseries, spits, grills, coffee makers, patio lighting, hi-fi dinner music... indoors and out, Reddy Kilowatt does scores of chores to ease your living. And his low, low "wages" make his pay your budget's biggest bargain!

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles prepared by Belle Glade Radio Station WSWN pertaining to items of interest about the local station. We hope you find them informative and entertaining and follow them each week.

During the past week it was announced by our news service, United Press, that UP and another fine news source, International News Service, had joined forces and that they are now the largest news gathering service in America. WSWN is truly proud to be a member of this fine organization.

The UP has been serving this station since the day WSWN went on the air back in 1947 with news from every corner of the world. As we well know, a good American is a well-informed American and WSWN is working at keeping the Glades people and the Florida informed of news while it's NEWS.

In addition to the news headlines that are heard hourly on this station, we have programmed news items in detail at strategic points throughout the day. At 8 a.m. you can hear a complete office or the experiment station, according to Dr. W. T. Forsee, Jr., chemist-in-charge here.

The booklet contains information of pertinent interest to growers.

"Of particular significance," Dr. Forsee said, "are the figures on pages four and five from which anyone can determine the probability of a frost prior to any certain specified date in the fall or after any certain specified date in the spring."

Custard Apple Days

By LAWRENCE E. (Okeelants) WILL

Post 20 Goes To Town

If you will remember back to the early months of 1958, you will not doubt, recollect two very important events. One was the incorporation of Belle Glade as a town. The other was the formation of the first American Legion post in the Everglades. It was organized in Reid's Belle Glade hotel. Dr. William J. Buck was commander and the membership included such notables as Joe Friedheim, Arthur Wells, Bob Creech, Bill Allen, George Farnall, Frank Morris and George Tedde, about twenty charter members. Since it was intended to represent the entire Glades area, it was dubbed Everglades Post 20. Meanwhile, over in West Palm Beach, somebody had dreamed up a scheme to induce tourists to remain a little longer before retreating northward. This was a sort of fair called the Seminole Sun Dance, which was to have various attractions including, of course, some Indians in their striped shirts, and a big parade on the opening night.

Now, some of us "muck rats" out in the Glades had decided that it would be no more than fitting to have the Everglades represented, and what, we asked, could be more appropriate than to have our American Legion post appear in the parade. We were all for it, but it seemed that we should have some sort of uniform. Nobody had a Legion uniform. Very few had the uniforms they had worn while in the World War. The post was so new that hardly a man had even a Legion cap. Doc Buck, of course, had a solution. "Well wear what we already have," he declared. "There's not a man who doesn't have khaki pants, a blue shirt and a pair of hosiery. We will just get some big straw hats and red bandanas, and we will have a uniform. They all know we are farmers, so we had just as well look like farmers."

Mr. Brogdon, the storekeeper, obligingly ordered some wide brimmed, high crowned straw hats, and the biggest red handkerchiefs he could find, so we had our uniforms. On the evening of parade day three carloads of Legionnaires set out for West Palm Beach. Conversation in the leading car turned to what they fancied was the attitude of people on the coast towards those in the Glades.

"They birds in town just think we are a bunch of hicks. They imagine we live on catfish and grits and gator tails for two years at a stretch just hoping we can strike it lucky on beans the third year and come in to buy a Cadillac or a Hudson Straight Eight."

"Well do you wonder, when some of us like Clare Greer and a few others walk down Clematis Avenue barefooted to the shoe store and then come out the shoes under their arm?" "They seem to think we are some kind of a cross between a Georgia stump jumper, an Indian and a catfisherman."

"Well, if we are Indians, we ought to give them a few war whoops just to prove it."

This suggestion was acclaimed, but at first nobody seemed to know how to go about war whooping, though all agreed it was a most excellent idea.

Now it had happened that earlier on this trip, one of the number, somewhat poetically inclined, had regaled them with some homespun words to be sung to that most melodious of all single calls, Tattoo, or Light Out. It went like this: "I am from old Lake Okechobee where they raise gators. Beans and potatoes, catfish and termites, prohibition hatters. Custard apple moonshine, catfish, moonshine all the time. But it furnished one of the boys with the germ of the needed was explained, and the war cry rehearsed until all were proficient as high school cheer leaders.

Well, it was quite a parade. Two or three floats, half a dozen bands, decorated cars, Seminole, Legion posts from blue caps. We had neither flags, drums nor caps, but that worried us not at all. As we stepped proudly down the street, at a signal, yod with great flourish of straw hats, we would shout in perfect unison:

Custard Apple, Moonshine Catfish, Moonshine Everglades Post Twenty! Yip pee-e-e! Muck Rats!

To say that we were the hit of the parade would be a sad understatement. West Palm Beach really knew that the Everglades had come to town!
